2011

ERIC C. WEISS, DMD • Periodontics (NJ specialty permit #3842)

Dr. Eric C. Weiss, a board-certified periodontist, is honored to again be selected as a Top Dentist, as voted by dentists throughout the state.

Dr. Weiss received his undergraduate and dental degrees from University of Pennsylvania and completed his specialty residency in periodontics at Temple University. He is a Diplomate of the American Board of Periodontology. He lectures throughout the country on periodontics and implant dentistry and teaches at UMDNJ, where he is a clinical assistant professor.

"I work with referring dentists from all over New Jersey," Dr. Weiss says. "They entrust me with the care of their patients for the quality of periodontal and dental implant treatment we provide, as well as the caring way in which this practice operates." Patients are treated with a kindness and respect that is exceptional. In-office sedation with an anesthesiologist is also available for patients who prefer to be sedated during their procedures.

"Three qualities set us apart: our sophisticated dental care; our concern for the patient's total well-being, including a strong understanding of the merging relationship between medicine and dentistry; and our close coordination with a patient's dental team," Dr. Weiss says.
